Fussing about future Passive about present

The World Environment Day has just been observed with the theme Beat the Plastic Menace for this year. Just as healthcare is perceived myopically in common circles as treating the sick flock with medicines, issues of environment protection seem to be limited to planting saplings, conveniently forgetting the role of earth's life forms other than human beings. While taking to the broom as it were by both people at large and government staff to get rid of rotting residue in living spaces, clearing the lakes and rivers of debris dumped into them since October 2, 2014 under the Swachch Bharat Abhiyan witnessed participation on a national scale, the mass of residue seems to have outdone the Abhiyaan. Clarion calls for avoiding dumping plastic and other debris into water bodies and not to let sewage and industry effluents into rivers across the country, flashed in bold font regularly by dailies of all hues is yet to be bestowed positive response by the offending parties in the land.

Knowledgeable persons warning people about the grim future for them and the country by writing feature articles in simple language in the wake of plethora of destructive acts such as rampant denudation of forests, mindless mining of sand from river beds, gobbling fertile lands for construction of dwellings as well as laying multi-lane roads, unabated cluttering of roads with automobiles causing air pollution, indiscriminate use of chemical fertilisers and pesticides for short-term gains and so on are branded as doomsday agents, dismissing their opinions as fussing about future.

The idiom Forewarned is Forearmed has its loud message for the people preferring to remain passive about their ongoing environment threatening acts hurting not only their own life but the rest of the life forms. Even the elementary lesson taught in primary school stage about the critical role that lush greenery plays in sustaining the water cycle and normal rainfall during well-marked seasons round the year seems to have not alerted the government machinery on the danger of interfering in the time-honoured natural phenomenon. Regarding the rest of the species other than human beings, particularly marine fauna, river hosted aquatic creatures, birds, insects and denizens of the forest are being bandied about for their role in keeping a balanced biodiversity amounting to platitude for public consumption.

A new brand of experts, called in common parlance as environmentalists, have arrived on the national scene, including a band of them familiar to Mysureans. They are self-appointed brand ambassadors bestowing their attention to the cause of protecting environment, whatever is left of it. While their presentations are authoritative, their captive audiences are urbanites who shower accolades on the experts. The rest may feel that the pro-environment talks are just fussing about future even as the masses prefer to remain passive in both thought and deed concerning environment.

EDITOR'S BOTTOMLINE

There is a memorable line in the children's story, The Pied Piper of Hamlin. Asked what was so great about his invention, the cunning, flautist replies: "I attract attention; chiefly with a secret charm... Who doesn't know of the Pied Piper?" Who knew that the story of the Piper would one day be a metaphor for the advertising industry? When we get down to thinking about it, consciousness is really a scarcity. In the limited waking time we have in a day, we try to fit in all the things we need to get done, but somehow, the sheer mass of distraction that turn our heads is astounding. The business of grabbing attention, and holding it, is tough and has been tempered over several decades. We are defined by what we pay attention to and by what occupies our mind from moment to moment. — Manasa Venkataraman in Business Standard.

'Needle Man' Art

Patiala: Arun Kumar Bajaj has a very unusual skill — he can paint with a sewing machine. Technically, it's embroidering, not painting, but his artworks are so incredibly detailed that they could pass as hyper-realistic paintings to the untrained eye.

Arun was really good at drawing and painting growing up and dreamed of becoming a famous painter, but his father's sudden death, 15 years ago, foiled his plans and forced him to abandon school in order to run the family business. His father was a tailor and he became one too, but he didn't let the artist in him die. Instead, he started "painting" using sewing machine. Today he is recognised as the world's only sewing machine artist. Arun runs a tailoring business in Adalat Bazar of Patiyala.

Moscow: A group of Mexican friends have been causing hilarity on Latino social media by posting photos of their adventures at the Football World Cup in Russia featuring a life-size cardboard cutout of their friend, whose wife didn't give him permission to go with them.

It was during the Brazil 2014 World Cup that five friends from the Mexican city of Durango decided to travel to the next world cup together, in a bus painted in their country's national colours. They started saving for the trip right away, but in April, just when they were getting ready to leave, one of the five friends let them know via a Facebook that he wasn't going to make the trip with them because his wife didn't give him permission. Hence, they took a life-size cardboard cutout of their friend wearing a hilarious "My wife didn't let me [go]" t-shirt.

The four friends set up a special Facebook page for their adventure, called "Ingue Su Matrushka" where they have been posting photos of themselves and the cutout of Javier in all sorts of hilarious circumstances.

Really...?

- "Crakows" were shoes with extremely long toes popular in the 14th and 15th century. Eventually, the pointy toes became ridiculously long to designate one's class in a society and became a controversial fashion statement.
- The "Hobble Skirt" was a short-lived fashion trend in which the hem of the skirt was so narrow that it impaired the wearer's movement.

LAUGHTER THE BEST MEDICINE

Boy making noise in the class was in utter confusion when he heard the teacher shouting at him, "Stand up on the head !" City Muslims offer Ramzan Prayers

Mysuru, June 16 (RK&NNN)- The sprawling Eidgah Maidan at Tilaknagar, which was completely spruced up, was teeming with people as nearly 60,000 Muslim brethren gathered to offer Ramzan prayers this morning.

Leading the prayers, Sir Khazi of Mysuru Hazrath Moulana Mohammed Usman Shariff, called upon the people to give 2.5 per cent of savings as 'Zakat' to the poor and needy as alms.

"God wanted everyone to understand what hunger is and hence the fasting during the holy month of Ramzan was introduced. It is a month-long training to understand how the poor and the needy feel when they go without food for days. Hence, charity is a very important part in one's life that everyone should follow," he said.

Mohammad Paigambar, the Prophet, always said that all are equal in the eyes of God and spoke about the mutual understanding between Muslims and non-Muslims, he said.

"There should be communal harmony, peace, unity, security and prosperity in the country and only then can a nation prosper. One should not discriminate between castes and religion and all must be treated as equal," stressed Sir Khazi and added, "The country is facing problems and it is very important to save humanity, which should be the main goal of every Indian."

Tourism and Sericulture Minister S.R. Mahesh assured the gathering that all the schemes meant for the poor and needy will continue to be implemented and the government was with them all the time.

Former MLAs Vasu, M.K. Somashekar, former Vice-Chancellor of Mangalore and Goa Universities Prof. B. Sheik Ali, former VC of Yenepoya University Prof. Syed Akheel Ahmed, former SJCE College Principal Dr. Shakeeb-ur-Rahman, Farooqia PU College Honorary Secretary Dr. M. Saeed Ahmed, Mysuru District Waqf Advisory Committee Chairman Arif Mekhri, journalist Afsar Pasha, Tanzeem-e-Ahle-Sunnat Jamath President Humayun Fur, Congress leader Shaukat Ali, Corporators Shaukat Pasha and Suhail Baig, former Corporator M. Shivanna, Karnataka State Waqf Committee Member Mumtaz Ahmed, former Vice-President of Muslim Co-operative Bank Faiz Pasha and others were present.

City Police Commissioner Dr. A. Subramanyeswara Rao was also present. Tight Police security was provided under the leadership of DCP N. Vishnuvardhana with KSRP, Mounted Police, CAR and Commando teams keeping a strict vigil at the Eidgah Grounds.

Ramzan prayers were also offered at the mosques in Tilaknagar, Rajivnagar 3rd Stage, Ghousianagar and a few other mosques in the city.

The Muslims wearing the traditional sherwani, pajamas and white skullcap were found greeting each other 'Eid Mubarak.' The boys in colourful dresses were also seen hugging one another in the traditional way.

HDK says 'nobody can touch me' until 2019 elections

Bengaluru, June 16 (UNI)- Hitting back at those predicting the fall of the coalition government anytime, Chief Minister H.D. Kumaraswamy (HDK) yesterday asserted, "nobody can touch me for at least one year."

Driving home the message that the government would last at least till the 2019 Lok Sabha polls and if possible even beyond, the CM said, "Some people are questioning as to how long the government will last. I want to tell them that nobody can touch me for one year. Nobody can destabilise this government till next Lok Sabha elections," he said.

Kumaraswamy was speaking to reporters after addressing the 15th Karnataka State Convention of the Institute of Chartered Accountants of India in Bengaluru yesterday. His statement triggered curiosity among public in the light of brewing discontentment among senior leaders of both the Congress and the JD(S) over Cabinet expansion and distribution of portfolios.

He admitted that running a coalition government is a challenge. Hinting at hurdles within the coalition for fulfilling his promise on farm loan waiver he said, "Some people are throwing hurdles for implementation of farm loan waiver as they fear JD(S) will get credit for it."

Chief Minister H.D. Kumaraswamy

HDK's assertion has lent credence to the view that this government may not last beyond 2019. According to political observers, by referring to "one year" the CM seems to be indirectly hinting at Congress' compulsion to support JD(S) till 2019.

Delivering on the most ambitious election promise of farm loan waiver is not proving to be an easy task for the coalition government. But to douse apprehensions about the government's commitment, the CM tweeted, "Dear farmers, Let there be no confusion on farm loan waiver. I am fully committed to the loan waiver. I want to ensure it is done scientifically benefiting maximum farmers. I am working on the modalities and will announce it shortly."

Later, speaking to reporters, the CM indicated that the waiver of farm loans is likely to be announced during the Budget Session of the State Legislature to be held from the first week of July. He said there would be only one power centre in the State and he would take a decision on the loan waiver issue.

"Congress feels financial condition is not good. But I will take care. I have to take a decision without any scope for misunderstanding. Budget Session will be in July first week and I will solve everything there,', Kumaraswamy, who is also holding Finance portfolio, added.

Loan waiver: BJP plans protest from June 30

Bengaluru, June 16 - Condemning Kumaraswamy Government for the delay in fulfilling its loan waiver promise, the Opposition BJP is gearing up for Statewide protests from June 30, if the CM fails to deliver on his promise. The protest will be organised by BJP's Raitha Morcha from June 30 to July 15 in all the 224 Assembly segments of the State.

Even as CM H.D. Kumaraswamy has been maintaining that he is working on the scheme and that it will be announced shortly, the BJP has been mounting pressure on the State Government to announce complete farm loan waiver, including those availed by the farmers from Nationalised Banks.

BJP State President B.S. Yeddyurappa has formed six teams of leaders to stage protests and also hold interactions with farmers in all regions of the state.

The teams will be headed by former Minister Lakshman Savadi, leaders Shivaprasad, Shankargouda Patil, Eshwarchandra Hosamani, K.S. Nanjundegowda and Pavitra Ramaiah. While Lakshman Savadi will be incharge of Belagavi, Bagalkot, Vijayapura, Udupi and Dakshina Kannada districts, Shivaprasad will be incharge of Bengaluru Urban, Bengaluru Rural, Ramanagar, Chikkaballapur and Kolar districts; Shankargouda Patil will be incharge of Ballari, Bidar, Kalaburagi, Yadagiri and Raichur districts; Eshwarchandra Hosamani will be incharge of Haveri, Gadag, Dharwad, Koppal and Uttara Kannada districts; K.S. Nanjundegowda will be incharge of Mysuru, Hassan, Kodagu, Mandya and Chamarajanagar districts and Pavitra Ramaiah will be incharge of Tumakuru, Chitradurga, Davanagere, Shivamogga and Chikkamagalur districts.

G.T. Devegowda to get Excise portfolio

Bengaluru, June 16- After persistent bargaining, senior JD(S) leader and Higher Education Minister G.T. Devegowda (GTD), who is the only Minister yet to take charge in the Congress-JD(S) coalition Government, may finally get the Excise portfolio.

G.T. Devegowda

Chief Minister Kumaraswamy on Friday is said to have agreed to hand over the Excise portfolio to G.T. Devegowda. Excise is one among the 11 portfolios that the CM currently holds.

The Chamundeshwari JD(S) MLA, who became a giant killer after defeating the then Congress Chief Minister Siddharamaiah, will be given one more portfolio, most probably Agricultural Marketing.

Ever since he was inducted into the Cabinet, GTD has been a troubled man, as he lost out on two portfolios — Revenue and Water Resources — to the Congress.

When the JD(S) asked him to take over the Co-operation portfolio, the veteran co-operator had vehemently denied the same, saying that he wanted a more 'lucrative' portfolio.

When he was allotted the Higher Education portfolio, the Chamundeshwari MLA registered his protest by making himself inaccessible for a couple of days, while CM Kumaraswamy himself attracted brickbats for making a lowly educated person as the Higher Education Minister.

After Devegowda outrightly declined Higher Education portfolio, Kumaraswamy agreed to give him Co-operation portfolio, which had already been allotted to Bandeppa Kashempur.

Later, when it became apparent that Kashempur would not swap Co-operation with Higher Education, CM Kumaraswamy was forced to sacrifice Excise, a major revenue generating portfolio.

G.T. Devegowda is hoping to assume office next week, according to sources.

Prof. K.S. Rangappa as Higher Education Dept. Adviser?

Mysuru, June 16 (SBD& DM)- Former Vice-Chancellor of Mysore University and KSOU Prof. K.S. Rangappa, who lost from Chamaraja Assembly Constituency contesting as JD(S) candidate in last month's Assembly polls, is likely to be appointed as Adviser to Higher Education Department.

Prof. Rangappa

With the JD(S) forming the Government in coalition with the Congress, the JD(S) is said to be keen on giving a responsible position to Prof. Rangappa considering his decades of academic experience.

Prof. Rangappa, who is a close relative of JD(S) Supremo H.D. Deve Gowda, is likely to be given a responsible position in the Higher Education Department, which portfolio CM Kumaraswamy is likely to retain as Chamundeshwari MLA G.T. Devegowda has declined to accept the portfolio.

Reacting to rumours about his likely appointment, Prof. Rangappa said that these were just speculations. Maintaining that he had no information about the possibility of appointing him as Higher Education Department Adviser, Prof. Rangappa said that when the Higher Education Minister is yet to be appointed, there was no question of him being appointed as Adviser now.

Sir,

At the entrance of Hinkal from city on Hunsur Road, next to Government School, the drainage which collapsed one year back is waiting for repair since then. Repeated written requests to Hinkal Gram Panchayat have yielded no result.

This drainage is acting as a breeding place for mosquitoes with foul smell in the air. About 150-plus students studying in the nearby school are at the risk of afflicting dengue.

Also the tree adjacent to this drainage may get uprooted any time and block the vehicular traffic on the busy Hunsur Road. Water pipes passing along the drainage may also get damaged. Hence, I request the authorities concerned to look into this and act immediately.

Yoga Day Musings...

June 21 is International Yoga Day and last year our city made it to the Guinness World Records for the most number of people performing yoga in a single location. Very apt for a city that is world renowned for its yogashalas and yoga gurus.

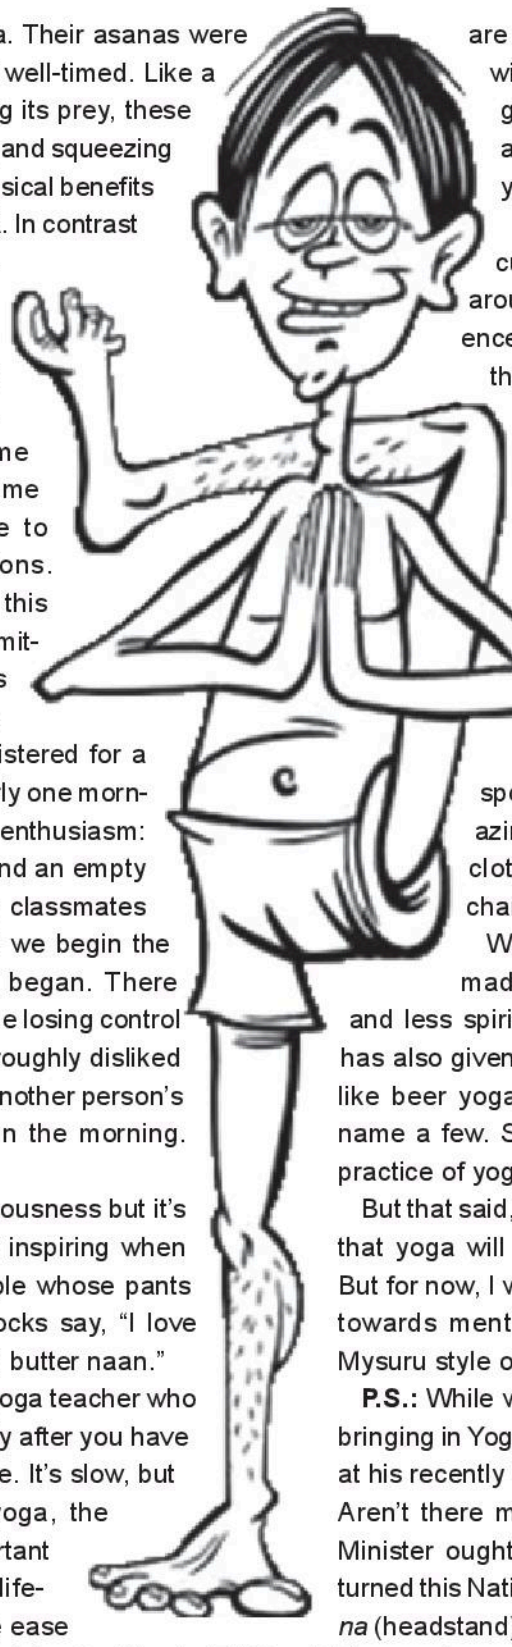
Like most children in Mysuru, in the early 80s, I too was sent to yoga class. I hated it. I never understood why a 12-year-old boy had to wake up at 5.30 am only to wrench in pain and twist himself like a snake. It seemed unnatural and unwanted. And when I saw some of the older students doing advanced yoga, I thought they were training to join the circus, a place people visited to watch the bizarre. After a while I couldn't take it anymore and I performed a Kanneer-asana (tear pose) for my mother and convinced her to stop waking me up so early and chasing me to the yogashala.

In college, I was re-introduced to yoga. This time I went voluntarily as the girl I was smitten by was attending the same yoga class. The yoga teacher was a young fellow and I couldn't take him seriously. So once, when he announced to the class to begin the dog pose I let out a small "bow-bow." Some students giggled, but the girl I was trying to impress did not. Later it was time for the cobra pose, and I hissed. Everyone laughed. I was asked to leave with a curse that people like me should be in a permanent state of Shavasana (corpse pose).

A few years later I regretted not learning yoga, because when I moved to the United States to study, I realised I not only could have made good money-teaching yoga but also enjoyed a lot of tantric delights.

Interestingly, I did get an opportunity to do yoga in the US when I joined a group of Indians at a park to do yoga. Soon I realised — what golf was to American businessmen, yoga was to pious middle-aged Indian men — a networking opportunity. It was terrible. None of them in the group did real yoga. All they did was chat and impart illegal stock tips to their yoga-mates.

What was further embarrassing was that next to us, a few Americans, read white men and women, were doing yoga. Their asanas were crisp, steady, strong and well-timed. Like a python slowly constricting its prey, these white-yogis were twisting and squeezing out all the mental and physical benefits they could get out of yoga. In contrast to the Indians, the Americans and Japanese yoga practitioners were the stars of the class and their dedication showed.



I tried yoga again some time in my late 20s, a time when most of us have to make major life decisions. To help myself through this period of life-altering commitments, I thought perhaps yoga could help. So, after I returned to India, I registered for a yoga class in the city. Early one morning I was ready with my enthusiasm: yoga mat, cotton towel and an empty bowel. But it seems my classmates were not. No sooner did we begin the asanas, the trumpeting began. There were way too many people losing control of their Muladhara. I thoroughly disliked the idea of wallowing in another person's gaseous cosmos early in the morning. Once again, I quit.

It was not just the gaseousness but it's neither encouraging nor inspiring when your class is full of people whose pants say yoga, but their buttocks say, "I love paneer tikka masala with butter naan."

Now, I practice with a yoga teacher who teaches a new asana only after you have mastered the present one. It's slow, but feels more potent. In yoga, the teacher or guru is important as it often becomes a lifelong partnership. But the ease of obtaining a Teacher Training Certificate (TTC) has flooded India with fly-by-night yoga teachers who take gullible foreigners for a ride. And there are just as many foreigners, who with very little yoga experience, go back to their country and take a few of their countrymen for a yogic-ride.

Yoga has also become very cultish because it usually centres around a single guru whose influence can be vast with a following that can run into more than hundred thousand people. In large and influential yoga centres, very few dare to take on their gurus or trainers about incidents of sexual abuse.

This is because there is a rush to cash in on the new-found yoga craze, both in India, in the west and the east. And like in other sports, yoga too has its own magazines, mobile apps, TV channels, clothing brands, props and merchandise — it's an industry now.

With more and more money to be made in yoga, it begins to feel less and less spiritual. This rush for yoga riches has also given rise to frivolous forms of yoga like beer yoga, pet yoga and nude yoga to name a few. Such a casual approach to the practice of yoga leaves it spiritually bereft.

But that said, we also have to accept the fact that yoga will evolve as it spreads globally. But for now, I will continue my twisted journey towards mental and physical health in the Mysuru style of yoga.

P.S.: While we thank our Prime Minister for bringing in Yoga Day, I couldn't help but cringe at his recently posted fitness challenge video. Aren't there more important issues a Prime Minister ought to address, issues that have turned this Nation upside down into Shirshasana (headstand). No wonder, many feel that the PM's promises and words feel like it was all just Pawanmuktasana, the Wind Relieving Pose.

Yoga – My Life

By Sujata Rajpal

Not too long ago yoga was considered beneficial only for old and retired people especially those who preferred a slow-paced life. And it was even rare to see men practicing yoga but the trend is rapidly changing. Youngsters are taking yoga like never before.

The yogashala I go to has more men than women and the majority of yoga practitioners are below 40. Engineers, doctors, businessmen, the busy professionals, harried home makers make time to begin their day with yogasanas.

During any time of the day when you pass by Gokulam, it is a common sight to spot foreigners in droves, yoga mats tucked under their arms, children in tow, walking leisurely towards their respective yoga centres. The royal city of Mysuru is gradually evolving as the global yoga hub.

Pensioners' Paradise, the tag no longer befits Mysuru. Paradise yes not only because of its salubrious climate and stress-free life but a paradise for yoga lovers. Today yoga is to Mysuru what Silicon Valley is to Bengaluru.

On the heels of the world yoga day on 21st June, it is befitting to talk about yoga and how it has changed the way we live. If you are a resident of Mysuru and you have never practiced yoga then you are living an incomplete life. Go look for a good yoga instructor in your neighbourhood and experience the divine.

'Foreigners associate yoga with Modi'

In 1993, when a boy of about 13 suffered from Asthma, he was advised a few yogic asanas by his teacher which he practiced religiously for some time and it completely cured him of the ailment. When he was 16, some people asked him to teach them yoga asanas and he graciously obliged. Five years later, at the age of 18, it was common for Bharath Shetty to get invites from professional organisations to teach them yoga which he did because he loved yoga. A year later, he met with a near fatal accident.

Doctors ruled out that he would ever be able to walk again. At that time little did he know that his physical suffering would lead him to do bigger things in life. Not the type to give up, he practiced yoga to cure himself which reinstated his belief in the power of yoga on one's body. Since then there has been no looking back for Yogacharya Bharath Shetty who is the first yoga teacher in India to be certified as E-RYT 500 (Experienced Registered Yoga Teacher who has completed minimum 500 hours of yoga teacher training programme).

Ironically in 2002 when Bharath came to Mysuru to learn yoga from the revered names in the industry, he was shooed away. They taught yoga only to foreigners. Indians not allowed, he was told. It was that time he decided to go to Pune to learn yoga from B.K.S. Iyengar. Today Bharath has as many Indians as foreigners in his classes. "Nationality doesn't matter. One needs to be passionate about yoga," says the yoga Guru who founded 'Indea Yoga' which combines Hatha, Ashtanga and Iyengar styles of yoga and is practiced without the use of props. Yogacharya Bharath Shetty also conducts workshops and retreats in countries like Spain, Bulgaria, Mexico, Malaysia, Switzerland and many other countries.

Yoga is a way of life. It is for the holistic development of the mind, it can change the way we think, believes Bharath who vouches by the lessons learnt in Raja Yoga by Swami Vivekananda and Light on Yoga penned by B.K.S. Iyengar. "Yoga is not about practicing asanas alone. It is about coordination of mind, body and breath. There is no formula to find a good yoga instructor. One should connect with the guru. Yoga is a practice and not a discourse," he says.

What has made yoga so popular in the recent past?' I ask.

The benign-looking Yogacharya throws his trademark half smile before speaking, 'I am not intending to be politically correct but Prime Minister Narendra Modi has helped take yoga to the zenith that it deserves. "Foreigners have begun to associate yoga with Modi. Interestingly when I tell the foreigners that I am an Indian, they ask innocently, 'are you from the same country as Modi?' Most of the people I meet know only two things about India – Modi and Yoga. And as far as Mysuru becoming the global hub of yoga is concerned, the credit goes to Krishnaraja Wadiyar," he says.

Mysuru reJoises Ashtanga Yoga

Sharath Jois, the world's foremost authority in Ashtanga yoga, talks about benefits of yoga, his institute and why he is never tired of teaching this ancient yogic method.

By Arathi Menon

While the rest of the world knows the seasons to be four in number, an Ashtanga yoga practitioner, who makes his annual pilgrimage to Mysuru for yoga studies, has one more season on his calendar — the yoga season. No, this season does not follow the movement of the earth but that of a Mysurean whose name has come to be synonymous with Ashtanga yoga itself — R. Sharath Jois.

The grandson of legendary yoga guru K. Pattabhi Jois, Sharath Jois took on the mantle of running the world-renowned Ashtanga Yoga Institute — Krishna Pattabhi Jois Ashtanga Institute a.k.a. KPJAYI — upon his grandfather's passing in 2008. With 28 years of teaching experience behind him, Sharath is easily the world's foremost authority in Ashtanga yoga today.

Ashtanga Yoga is a traditional system of yoga where yoga is considered a tool for spiritual progression and asana is not practised in isolation for just the physical benefit. It is, in fact, the first step to the ultimate spiritual realisation or Samadhi.

Thanks to the Jois family who popularised this method in the West, Ashtanga Yoga is now a multi-million dollar industry in the world. Celebrity yoga practitioners like Madonna, Sting and Gwyneth Paltrow swear by it. The Ashtanga yogashalas around the globe follow what is called a Mysore-style practice where the teachers don't lead the class; they give classes one-to-one in a group setting. KPJAYI is considered the source of Ashtanga Yoga because Pattabhi Jois was the student of T. Krishnamacharya, who is the father of modern yoga.

Ashtanga yoga has grown exponentially now and thousands of students come to Mysuru every year to learn from Sharath during the yoga season which is typically six months a year. Many more attend his classes when he travels abroad. It is no exaggeration to say that when Sharath Jois sneezes, the Ashtanga world catches a cold.

Contributing to Gokulam's economy

Busy with the ongoing yoga season, Sharath says when the season opens he gets over 5,000 applications every month for his classes that can fit 350-400. He works seven to eight hours continuously every day, waking up at 1 am to do his own practice before the first set of students begin to come by 3:30 am. Ask him how he manages such a packed schedule single-handedly, the answer is almost always a humble smile. "I consider it as a seva (service)," he says.

His service, however, is not contained within the four walls of the institute. Thanks to hordes of foreign students who visit Mysuru, everyone, from housemaids to auto drivers and cafe operators around Gokulam where the institute is, makes swift bucks during the season. Emran Baig, who sells tender coconuts outside the institute, confesses that he manages to sell 500 coconuts a day during the season. Even castor oil, which Sharath recommends for a weekly bath for supple muscles, sells like hotcakes this time.

Yoga doesn't hurt, it only heals

That apart, Sharath is instrumental in shaping some of the best yoga teachers in the world and in the process, raising the market value of yoga. A staunch critic of short-term Teacher Training Certificates or TTCs most private yoga institutes give out, Sharath believes one can be a good yoga teacher with only three to five years of dedicated yoga practice.

One of the mandates to be a KPJAYI-authorised teacher is to have a steady practice of the system for a minimum of three years. "Being a yoga teacher is a great career to choose. But if an engineering or medical career demands three to five years of learning, why should yoga be any different?" he asks. A question particularly pertinent at a time yoga-related injuries are increasingly being reported.

While the media probe on yoga guru Baba Ramdev's alleged knee surgery in London is still on, Sharath's own personal experience is a fitting example that yoga, when done correctly, doesn't hurt. It only heals. Growing up as a sickly child who suffered tonsillitis at the age of four, rheumatic fever that confined him to bed for a brief period at the age of 11 and hernia that affected his joints and heart at 13, Sharath, at 48, is now as robust as a 20-year-old.

Listing out the health benefits of yoga, Sharath recommends Ashtanga Yoga for everyone — both young and old — but especially for those with respiratory issues, allergies and to ward off the ill effects of pollution. He says certain postures like 'Badhakonasana' and 'Upavishtakonasana' are especially beneficial for pregnant women as they help ease labour. He, however, cautions first-timers from practising Ashtanga yoga method if they are pregnant.

"Ashtanga yoga demands a certain time frame for the body to get used to it. It increases internal heat to flush out toxins from the body but you may lose your baby if your body is new to the practice," he says. Equally important is to not push oneself too much in the practice and getting proper guidance from a learned teacher. "A lot of yoga injuries are the result of ego-based practice and teachings. This is why learning under an experienced teacher is important," he says.

"Yoga day is a great idea"

Sharath is especially appreciative of the government's attempt at pushing yoga and making it mandatory even at school level. "It's good that the government is planning to introduce yoga at the primary level so that the knowledge of yoga is imparted at a young age. This will help create better yoga teachers in the future," he says. "We need more yoga teachers but the yoga course should be given like a degree course at universities. More traditional schools should be brought in to give the course," he adds.

Though he is not doing anything special on yoga day, he says he is happy that the world is finally recognising this ancient practice. "I hope this day motivates more people to take up yoga every day. We can get rid of a lot of diseases and also bring in more harmony in the world by practising yoga," he says.

Considering yoga is the only practice that has an effect on both the body and the mind, Sharath believes that the popularity of yoga will certainly make the world a better place. "The yoga day is just the beginning. Many more good things are waiting to happen," he says.

SAYOGA: A one-stop boutique for yoga

By Sujata Rajpal

It's not that in life every venture begins with a dream. Sometimes ideas erupt out of nothing but ultimately take the form of a dream. The story of Sayoga, a boutique store for yoga enthusiasts is something similar. It all started with providing accommodation to yoga practitioners visiting Mysuru.

Shruthi Ranga

"Foreigners, who come to Mysuru to learn yoga, face many issues like where to find plumbers, electricians or even get a WiFi connection. We started off with providing hassle-free fully furnished accommodation solution to yoga practitioners but then realised why stop at just the accommodation? How about multiple accessories that yoga practitioners need such as mats, comfortable but chic organic clothing and accessories? The idea came and soon became a reality. It was in September 2017 when Sayoga, a one-stop shop for yoga enthusiasts was opened. 'I didn't worry so much about the response because yoga has always been my passion and I wanted to do something which equally caters to the local crowd," says Shruthi Ranga, the person behind Sayoga.

Gone are the days when people practiced yoga in loose pyjamas and ill-fitting kurtas. Modern day yoga practitioners want to wear chic but organic and comfortable clothes while doing yogasanas. Sayoga provides them the solution. It has tied up with various companies for the same. Shruthi, who has been a yoga practitioner for more than a decade, says. "Yoga is a way of life for me."

What motivated you to start something which caters to a small niche market? I ask.

"The market may be small but it is growing swiftly," Shruthi corrects me. "My father K.S. Raghavendra Rao is my inspiration. He has been practicing yoga for about 30 years. Even at the age of 81, he still practices yoga every day. We also have a library which has books on yoga. I have brought my father's yoga books and many of my own to create a small library," tells the effervescent woman with an unmistaken smile of pride.

Besides the regular store, Sayoga conducts yoga and meditation workshops. It also promotes handicrafts and other Indian stuff.

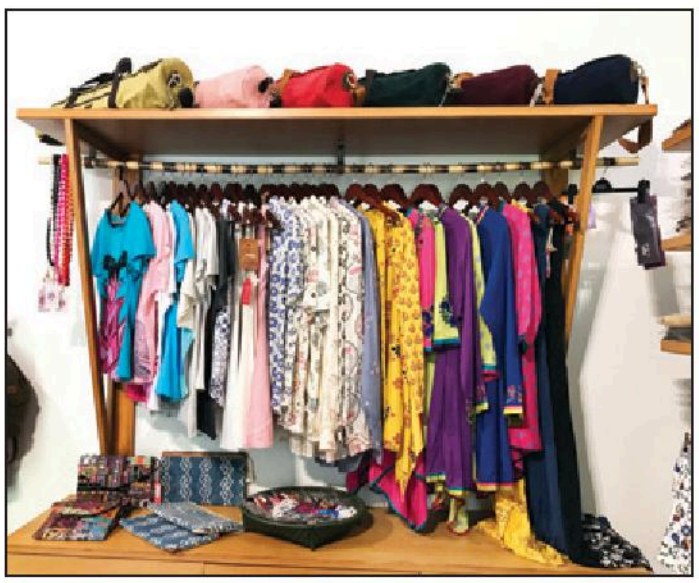
What next?

"Next is a small café which will provide yogic food to guests and it will also be a place to unwind," tells the lady with stars in her eyes. She laughs.

"I provide guests with all solutions except telling them which yoga class to join as I am not here to promote any particular yoga centre, I am here to promote yoga and make yoga chic," she explains.

Sayoga is housed in a heritage building (80 years old). Except the interiors which had to be furnished to fulfil the requirement of a boutique, most of it including the garden has remained untouched to retain the old world charm.

"Life is a bliss if you make your passion your work. I have quit working at our family business and now spend all my energies on Sayoga." Shruthi signs off.



Four years of Narendra Modi government

Mysuru-Kodagu MP Pratap Simha is seen presenting a booklet that lists the achievements of Narendra Modi government at Centre to Suttur Mutt Seer Sri Shivarathri Deshikendra Swamiji this morning as MLA L. Nagendra and other BJP leaders look on.

Mysuru, June 16 (PM&BCT)- The National Democratic Alliance government at the Centre led by Prime Minister Narendra Modi is completing four years in office after emerging as the strongest and most influential party that made Congress lose tragically in 2014. With the term of office nearing its end, the BJP has already started its preparations for the 2019 elections.

The party has announced a series of media events to publicise its achievements. Among them is a fortnight-long programme where ministers — both from the Centre and BJP-ruled states — MPs, MLAs, Mayors and all other office-bearers of the party led by BJP President Amit Shah is reaching out to 1,00,000 personalities from different walks of life to highlight its achievements.

The programme began on May 27 and party leaders are reaching out to personalities or experts or influential people across the country. As part of the programme, each BJP leader will interact with at least 25 renowned people from various fields such as retired judges of the Supreme Court and High Courts, retired bureaucrats, retired army personnel, Seers, sports stars, and writers, among others, and will inform them about the achievements of the Modi government.

Launching the interaction programme in Mysuru this morning, Mysuru-Kodagu MP Pratap Simha met Suttur Seer Sri Shivarathri Deshikendra Swamiji at Suttur Mutt and member of Mysore royal family Pramoda Devi Wadiyar and explained the achievements of the Centre and what development has taken place in Mysuru.

At the Suttur Mutt, Seer Sri Shivarathri Deshikendra Swamiji accepted the 33-page booklet that has listed the national and local achievements. Addressing the seer, Pratap Simha said that the book was a 48-month report card of the government. He said that what Congress could not achieve in more than 48 years, the BJP has done it in 48 months, Simha claimed.

The booklet is titled "Saaf Niyath, Sahi Vikas" (clean administration and right development) and it lists out the Rs. 11,000 crore grants that has been sanctioned to Mysuru. Pratap Simha claimed that it was due to his efforts that such huge money has been granted to Mysuru with the help of which various development works including road, railways and airport have been initiated in his constituency.

After meeting the Suttur Seer, Simha proceeded to Mysore Palace where he met Pramoda Devi Wadiyar. Here too, he explained the Modi government's achievements and as an MP what he has been able to bring to Mysuru and Kodagu. MLA L. Nagendra, party leaders Mallappa Gowda M.V. Ravishankar, M.V. Ramprasad and Gokul Govardhan were present.

MP Pratap Simha hands over the booklet to Pramoda Devi Wadiyar at Mysore Palace this morning.

Signifance of Eid-ul-fitr

It is the feasting after fasting, the celebration of self restraint and victory of piety. It's time for Eid.

'Eid' in Arabic means 'festival' and 'Fitr' means 'breaking the fast'. It is celebrated by Muslims world over which marks the end of the holy month of Ramzan.

The significance of Eid-ul-fitr is rejoicing in the remembrance of Allah and expressing gratitude for fulfilling the obligatory fasting sincerely. Celebrations entail wearing new clothes, family get-togethers and preparing scrumptious delicacies but the true spirit of this festival is enlivening Indianess, forgiveness, peace and grace.

Dressed in their best with henna-decorated hands, they toss up special culinary delights. Biryani and sewaiyya are the must haves and shared with family,friends and neighbours. Children often receive pocket money as 'Eidi'.

"This is the day I look forward to, as for me it's the most joyous day of the year. I make sure the poor and needy in the neighbourhood are not deprived of the celebration and hand them over the basic necessities for the occasion to celebrate Eid," said Muneer Ahmed, a resident of N.R.Mohalla.

"I visit my relatives and neighbours and exchange Eid greetings. Later in the day my children invite their friends for Biryani and Sheerkhorma" said Bibi Sara, a resident of Rajivnagar.

Altaf Hussain Subhani who runs the girls orphanage called 'Jamai Gulshane Fatima' in Shantinagar said, "To me the true sense of Eid celebration is when Allah accepts the fasts and the prayersthat I have performed during the holy month of Ramzan."

Eid-ul-fitr, which is a culmination of a blessed month is a gateway to strengthen faith, family ties and foster brotherhood amongst communities.

'Public should join hands to help eradicate child labour'

Children and dignitaries taking a pledge to raise voice against child labour and make Karnataka a child labour-free State during the Anti-Child Labour Day programme held at the Institution of Engineers-India (IEI) premises on JLB Road in city recently.

Mysuru, June 16 (PM&KS)- "Public should join hands with various Departments by informing the officials if they come across any child labourers which would help in eradicating child labour completely by taking action on people employing children," said Principal District and Sessions Court Judge S.L. Krishnappa Vontigodi, who also heads the District Legal Services Authority (DLSA).

He was speaking after inaugurating the programme organised jointly by the District Administration, Labour Department, DLSA, District Child Labour Eradication Society and other organisations at the Institution of Engineers-India (IEI) premises on JLB Road to observe Anti-Child Labour Day recently.

Continuing, he said that though the law to eradicate child labour came into existence in 1986, the evil practice of employing children as labourers still exist, which needs to be curbed.

Stating that education is very essential to children, Vontigodi said that parents should ensure that their children attend schools besides urging the parents not to send small children to work just to help the family.

DCP N. Vishnuvardhana, who presided over the event, called upon the public not to sit quietly if they come across child labourers besides asking the members of the public to inform Police.

Stating that it is everyone's responsibility to eradicate child labour, the DCP said that it was in 2002 that International Labour Organisation began to observe World Anti-Child Labour Day, with the motto 'Future Without Child Labour.'

He said that a Special Children Police Unit in city is working to stop the practice of child labour and added that the unit had solved many cases of child labour and other related cases besides rescuing children and sending them to rehabilitation homes for better future.

The DCP urged the public to at least call the Police Control Room if they do not have the phone numbers of other concerned Departments and assured that their identity would be kept secret. "All we need is information, we do not even want your name. Just provide us with correct information and we will act upon it," he added.

Labour Department Assistant Commissioner A.C. Thammanna, Women and Child Welfare Deputy Director K. Radha, Factories and Boilers Department Assistant Director H. Suresh, RLHP Director K. Saraswathi and heads and office-bearers of various NGOs and organisations were present.

Selvakumar

According to a notification, Dr. S. Selvakumar has been appointed as the Secretary to Chief Minister, while Tushar Girinath has been appointed as Chairman of Bengaluru Water Supply and Sewerage Board, Bengaluru and Pankaj Kumar Pandey has been appointed as the Secretary to Government, Food and Civil Supplies, Consumer Affairs and Legal Metrology Department.

Dr. S. Selvakumar had served as the Deputy Commissioner of Mysuru a decade ago, while Tushar Girinath had served as the Secretary to Siddharamaiah when he was the CM.

Indiscriminate planting of saplings under power lines

Shows lack of common sense among officials

Mysuru, June 16 (SBD&NNN)- This is the World Environment Month and India was the host nation for World Environment Day on June 5. For a sustainable living 'Go Green' has become the mantra. The Forest Department, in association with the NGOs and voluntary organisations, is planting saplings at vacant spots and road sides as part of tree planting programmes.

The planting of saplings, likewise, has been going on at the foot of Chamundi Hill near the roadside of JSS Ayurveda Hospital. However, such a noteworthy programme is not without its blemish. And what is so objectionable about this? It is that the saplings are being planted indiscriminately, right under the power lines overhead, which clearly shows the lack of common sense among the officials.

Once the saplings grow into trees, the branches will touch the power lines. Then either the branches have to be cut or the trees uprooted. Without even realising that it could pose danger in the future, saplings are being planted.

In the city many trees are touching the overhanging electricity wires. The CHESCom staff keep cutting or trimming the branches every now and then. In spite of these problems, the officials continue to commit mistakes by planting saplings under the power lines, said a senior citizen expressing his displeasure.

Earlier mistakes rectified: After the citizens had commented on this unscientific approach to planting of saplings, there are several incidents of the Departments concerned waking up and rectifying their mistakes.

For instance, the saplings were being planted inside the retaining walls of Chamundi Hill. When the public saw this they warned that once the trees grow, it could create problems. Problems could arise if the plants are grown on the side of narrow roads as it could affect traffic movements in the future. Hence, they protested against planting of saplings on this stretch. The then Mayor Sandesh Swamy, noticing the problems, had got the plants removed and got it planted outside the retaining wall. Now, most of them have grown into tall trees.

When late Harshakumar Gowda was an MLA, he had chalked out a tree planting programme on Jodi Tenginamara Road in Bannimantap. However, the public, seeing the people in charge planting the saplings below the power line, brought it to the notice of Gowda. Immediately, he got the plantings on the other side of the road where there were no power lines. The saplings planted then have now grown into luscious trees and is providing shade to a lot of people.

If the public had not cautioned at that time, due to the apathetic attitude of the people concerned who were in charge of the programme then, most of the trees today would have been under the power lines and caused untold problems and probably the trees would have had to be brought down.

It is not just enough to be a part of the Green Movement. The officials concerned should have a sense of responsibility in discharging their duties by being committed to the cause and directing the staff to take the right steps of planting the saplings at the right places. They should be clearly told that saplings must not be planted under power lines or where overhead cables are running. All they require is a little common sense to see where to or where not to plant the saplings, said the senior citizen.

Hadinaru Kaalu Mantapa at Nanjangud flooded

Nanjangud/ H.D. Kote, June 16- River Kapila in spate has caused floods in the areas around the famous Srikanteshwaraswamy Temple in Nanjangud yesterday. The flood waters have entered the Lord Parashurama Temple on the riverbanks and nearby fields.

The Snana Ghatta (bathing point for devotees) has been flooded and people were seen wading through knee deep waters to cross the road which leads to the main temple. Even places like Hadinaru Kaalu Mantapa, Sopana Katte, Mudikatte and surrounding areas have either fully submerged or partially under water.

The floods are likely to recede with the decrease in the inflow into the Kabini reservoir from where water is being released into the Kapila. Kapila River joins the Cauvery at Sangam in T. Narasipur.

Kabini Dam Assistant Executive Engineer Mariswamy said that rain in the dam's catchment area at Wayanad in Kerala has abated and therefore the inflow into the dam had come down. As of now, 35,000 cusecs of water is being released from the Kabini dam, he added.

Meanwhile, the entire Kabini Dam premises in H.D. Kote Taluk are under water. Water is being released from the four crest gates and the small bridge in the downstream of the Dam is submerged. Vehicular movement between N. Begur and Handpost is disrupted as the road is submerged at places.

Villagers told Star of Mysore that whenever water is released from Kabini, they face flooding problem. As the bridge downstream is submerged, links with several villages have been cut off. Villagers alleged that since years they have been demanding the construction of a new bridge but the Government has not responded.

However, Kabini Executive Engineer Jagadeesh said that a proposal to build a new bridge at an estimated cost of Rs.20 crore has been submitted to the Government for approval.

The small bridge in the downstream of the Kabini Dam in H.D. Kote taluk which is now submerged.

Two-day Sports Meet for journalists begins

Mysuru, June 16- A two-day Annual Sports Meet for journalists, organised under the aegis of Mysuru District Journalists Association (MDJA), began at University of Mysore (UoM) Football Ground (Maharaja's College Ground) here this morning.

National shooter Rakshith Shastry and National women's volleyball player Kumari Honey jointly inaugurated the Meet by striking a cricket ball with a bat.

Speaking as the chief guest on the occasion, UoM Physical Education Department Director Dr. P. Krishnaiah said that sports plays a key role in maintaining one's mental and physical fitness.

Explaining the role of sports in maintaining metal balance and physical fitness, he said that it was vital for journalists to take part in sporting events, as it involves physical exercise, which is very important for maintaining good health.

Recalling the days when journalists had to do a lot of physical running in the absence of technology to gather news, Dr. Krishnaiah said, now that everyone can get the latest information and updates on their finger tips, thanks to the rapid advancement of science and technology, taking part in Meets like these will enable the journalists to relax for a while and thus relieve themselves from mental stress.

He wished the scribes all success in the Meet. T-shirts were distributed to members of the Association on the occasion.

MDJA President C.K. Mahendra, General Secretary K.J. Lokesh Babu and others were present during the inauguration.

Today, cricket matches involving five teams were played. While Avinash headed one of the teams Ravi Pandavapura, C. Dinesh, Chandrashekar and R. Krishna captained the four other teams.

Tomorrow, the concluding day, athletics and other team events will take place.

FIFA World Cup 2018

Sochi, June 16- Cristiano Ronaldo scored a stunning hat-trick as Portugal snatched a 3-3 draw with Spain in a World Cup classic here on Friday. Real Madrid star Ronaldo crashed in an 88th minute free-kick to snatch a point for Portugal after a second-half goal from Nacho put the Spaniards 3-2 ahead.

Ronaldo's late equaliser capped a storming encounter which came after a chaotic few days which saw Spain coach Julen Lopetegui sacked and Fernando Hierro appointed as his replacement.

Earlier, Ronaldo had twice put the European champions in front only for Diego Costa to bring Spain level on each occasion on a steamy night on Russia's Black Sea coast.

But then Ronaldo stepped up to send his free-kick from 25 yards up over the wall and into the net, as the Iberian neighbours settled for a point apiece in this Group B encounter. It was a remarkable signal of intent from the current Ballon d'Or winner, who had never made a serious impact in any of his previous three World Cups, only managing to score one goal in each.

In one night the Real Madrid superstar doubled his World Cup finals goal tally, and made history by scoring at an eighth consecutive major tournament going back to Euro 2004, when he was still a teenager.

Iran beat Morocco

A heartbreaking stoppage-time own goal from substitute Aziz Bouhaddouz gave Iran a dramatic 1-0 win over Morocco in their World Cup Group B opener on Friday.

Iran left-back Ehsan Hajsafi whipped in a free kick five minutes into added time and Bouhaddouz launched himself at the ball, glancing a header past his own keeper Munir Mohamedi.

The Iranians, who had not won a World Cup game since their victory over the US in 1998, celebrated as if they had won the tournament.

Uruguay beat Egypt

Jose Gimenez scored an 89th-minute header to secure a 1-0 win for Uruguay against Egypt in their World Cup opener on Friday, just as the North Africans appeared to have escaped with a point despite missing key striker Mohamed Salah.

Gimenez met a Carlos Sanchez free kick to score the goal that broke a run since 1960 of failing to win in the opening game of the World Cup finals.

Researchers stage protest

Mysuru, June 16 (RKB&NNN)- Members of the Mysore University Research Scholars Association staged a protest demanding release of scholarship amount every month on time, free laptops and separate hostel facilities.

The members gathered in front of the University Library in Manasagangothri campus here yesterday and shouted slogans against University of Mysore and University Grants Commission (UGC).

They alleged that both are taking a stand against Dalit and Backward Classes students. They demanded that instead of forcing students to do research in Maharaja's College which lacks facilities, they should be allowed to do research in the parent departments in Manasagangothri which have all the facilities.

Three mobile phone thieves arrested, 33 handsets seized

Mysuru, June 16- The Railway Police have arrested three mobile phone thieves in separate incidents and have recovered 33 handsets including some high-end ones. The arrested are 23-year-old K. Albin and 22-year-old Abhilash from Besagarahalli in Koppa hobli of Mandya district and M. Suresha of Gundlupet in Chamarajanagar. The thieves used to target train passengers. Either they would divert their attention and take away the phones or they would snatch the phones while people are on call.

The Police have informed persons who have lost their mobile phones to collect the handsets from the Railway Police Office.

Mysuru, June 16- This is the world environment month and in order to spread awareness about environment and wildlife, a 60-day Wildlife Model Expo, 'Mysuru Utsava 2018,' organised by Fun World and Resorts (India) Private Limited, began from yesterday at the Dasara Exhibition Grounds.

The exhibition will be open from 3 pm to 10 pm and the entrance ticket is Rs.50. The expo will end on Aug.12.

The main attractions are the technically designed robotic animals on display. The sounds and the movements of the animals will really thrill the children and make it an experience which they will cherish. The elephant nodding its head and trumpeting, gorilla winking, dog barking, hippopotamus looking solid, rhinoceros charging, lion, bear, crocodile and the snake slithering with hissing noise, are all a part of the exhibits that is sure to attract people of all ages.

The world's tallest building Burj Khalifa in Dubai is another attraction, apart from the 3-D gallery, where one can see late President A.P.J. Abdul Kalam presenting a potted plant or a tiger jumping out of the frame and Mother Teresa blessing.

There are also stalls exhibiting toys, handicrafts, handlooms and food court for the taste buds.

Tourism Minister S.R. Mahesh inaugurated the Mysuru Utsava. Later, speaking he said that in order to attract more tourists there are plans to hold the exhibition not only during Dasara, but throughout the year. Suttur Srikshetra, Adichunchanagiri Srikshetra and the famous Silk Factory will all be a part of the tourism circuit, he added.

Fun World and Resorts (India) Private Limited Managing Director Vinod Kumar Sabharwal, Karnataka Exhibition Authority Chief Executive Officer (CEO) Shashikumar, Mayor Bhagyavathi, former Deputy Mayor Vanitha Prasanna, Corporator M.V. Ramprasad, Muthuraj, Mallikarjun and others were present.

Why can't we have more than three dogs?

Pet owners, NGOs question MCC's 'One Apartment, One Pet Dog' proposal

Mysuru, June 16 (RK&BCT)- An interaction was held with pet owners, NGOs and the officials of the Mysuru City Corporation (MCC) yesterday where pet owners questioned the 'One Apartment, One Pet Dog' proposal of the MCC and termed it unrealistic.

Interaction was held at People For Animals (PFA) premises in Bogadi where MCC elicited opinions from participants regarding the MCC's plans to issue mandatory licences to dog owners.

"What we are intending to do is provide proper facilities to dogs. Some dogs are domesticated in cramped places with no ventilation. Some owners let loose their dogs and it becomes public nuisance. We want to restrict all this. Also, the owners must provide proper medical facilities to dogs," he said.

He said that there were many instances in city where pets have bitten the people and the MCC had got many complaints. Dr. Suresh told pet owners that if they had planned to have more than three dogs, arrangements for the same must be planned when the house or an apartment is built. Proper facilities like light and ventilation should be provided to dogs at such enclosures, he said.

He told the participants that before the implementation of rules, the proposal will be placed before the MCC Council for approval and later it will be sent to the State Government. As the proposal is in initial stage, Dr. Suresh asked pet owners and NGOs to submit their objections before the rules are implemented.

PFA Trustee Savitha Nagabhushan, volunteer Namitha and others were present.

Following the footsteps of BBMP, the MCC plans to bring in a rule where licences for pet dogs will be mandatory. The BBMP is in the process of implementing the pet dog licence rule with the main clause being the limitation on the number of pet dogs that can be reared — only one pet dog per apartment.

However, the MCC's proposal has not gone down well with pet owners who have termed the proposal of one dog per house as illogical and the MCC is going beyond its jurisdiction in formulating such rules.

Replying to the concerns, Assistant Director of MCC Veterinary Dept. Dr. S.C. Suresh said, the MCC has not proposed to restrict the number of dogs.
